

Yes, there is too much violence on TV. I was especially shocked to come home this evening(August 2, 2004) turn on the TV, turn it to spike and see one man being assaulted by a sledge hammer on national television. The WWE calls this entertainment, I call it insanity! We expect our children to grow up and lead a normal peaceful life when they are bombarded by this sadistic melodrama during prime time??? Whether it was staged or not, whether it was intentional or not, this was several great steps beyond what is normal, and beyond that DECENCY STANDARD that you have been enforcing lately. The people behind this , the WWE management and the person on TV responsible need to be fined, suspended and if possible banned from television and public forum in general. This was absurd,I had to turn the channel to protect my children, how would you like to have a child ask, , "Why can't I hit someone with a sledge hammer, that man on TV just did it?" Fix it, now, the representation was tooooooooo graphic, and that is if it was fake. If it was real, then someone needs to pay for taking such reckless and negligent chances. I will be emailing all Senators and Congressmen from my district as well. If your going to fine people millions for a split second view of a pastie, don't you think that you should do worse for a several minute portrayal of abuse and unadulterated violence. We are laughed at around the world because we shudder at showing a breast on television, but we allow this violent storm to brew and fester on nationwide television. That is , by any definition, morally decrept!
